The Greater Richmond area is a vibrant metropolitan area recognized as one of the best cities in America, home to several universities and six Fortune 500 companies. While the community in general is thriving, there are many neighborhoods that still need our support to become self-sufficient. These communities require quality housing, safe streets, employment opportunities and good schools. Financial investment alone is not the solution. We work with residents to help them become leaders in their neighborhood, because no one has more at stake in a community than its residents.
